About me

I am an independent and enthusiastic hard worker with growing confidence, who enjoys a challenge and working with other talented people around me. I have a wide range of hobbies and interests, including: writing and illustrating short stories (currently my own book); drawing and sketching. However, my biggest passion and interest is in all things animated and art related from watching films, playing games, keeping up on the latest technology, up to date with the gaming world, to poring over artwork in books and constantly learning new tips to carry on evolving my animation skills. To fully relax I enjoy going out with my friends, playing the latest games or for a long fresh-aired walk. I have visited many places around the world including Antigua, France, Spain, Germany and Portugal and hope in the future to visit many more learning about the different cultures, faiths and their history from which to gain inspiration for my work. Taking this inspiration along with my skill set and the ability to learn quickly I wish to further train in a studio environment as a professional 3D animator.
